

LATIN AMERICA SUPPORTS U. S.

Prompt Endorsement of America's Action in War Greeting to Washington.

MATERIAL AID IS OFFERED

(By Associated Press Leased Wire.) Washington, April 14.—Prompt endorsement from South America of the action of the United States in taking up Germany's challenge to warfare the source of much gratification to administration officials. There remained today but three countries—Ecuador, Venezuela and Colombia—which had not defined their positions, and it was believed that before the end of the week they too would respond.

With the exception of Costa Rica, none of the Central American group had declared its attitude but no concern over where their sympathy will be placed has been felt at the state department.

Cuba Leads Fighters. So far Cuba is the only war spot in Latin America, but the positions assumed by Panama and Costa Rica place them practically in the list of warring nations and almost no doubt remains that Brazil will be at war within a few days. The only governments that have been silent in their endorsement of the step taken by the United States are Chile and Peru, the former confining itself to a formal declaration of neutrality and the latter to "deploring" the fact that the United States had been unable to adjust her difficulty with Germany without recourse to war.

Following is the way the other Latin-American nations whose positions are defined, were lined up today:

Cuba—Declared war against Germany.

Panama—Declared her readiness to assist in any way possible in the protection of the Panama canal.

Costa Rica—Offered her ports and other territorial waters to the United States for war needs of the American navy.

Brazil—Relations broken with Germany.

Bolivia—Relations broken with Germany.

Uruguay—Endorsed the action of the United States and characterized Germany's submarine warfare as an "insult to humanity."

Paraguay—Expressed sympathy with the government of the United States. "Forced into war to rehabilitate the rights of neutrals."

Argentina—Endorsed the action of the United States as just and right.

Mexico—Neutral.

Progress Neutral Conference. State department officials believe it possible that Ecuador may regard itself as bound to adopt a somewhat equivocal attitude because of a suggestion several weeks ago that a conference of neutrals be held at Montevideo to study means for bringing the war to an end.

Guatemala's proclamation of martial law was still regarded here as a step preliminary to a break with Germany. It was believed that Honduras, Salvador and Nicaragua are awaiting action by Guatemala.

The United States has looked to Latin-America for moral support more than for material assistance, but there has been no disposition to under-rate the material assistance that might be given. The total peace strength of Latin-America's armies is only 334,000 men but the potential power is several times that.

MAUD POWELL IN CONCERT TONIGHT

World's Greatest Living Woman Violinist Will Play With Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Spring Program of the Aurora Symphony Series Attracts Largest Audience of the Season.

Two great audiences that packed Sylvanell to the doors this afternoon enjoyed the annual spring school concert of the Aurora Symphony series under the direction of Mrs. Theodore Worcester at Sylvanell.

The great Chicago Symphony orchestra under the leadership of Frederick Stock played two fine programs, one from 2 to 3 o'clock and another from 4 to 5 o'clock in order to accommodate the large number of people who wished to attend.

The chorus of 700 children from the grade school performed admirably and gained great applause. They have been ably drilled by Miss Pook and Mr. Stables, the public school directors of music. The children greatly appreciated this opportunity of singing to the accompaniment of one of the greatest orchestras in the world.

It is expected that there will be another tremendous audience this evening for the last evening concert of this season's series.

Stand Powell Concert. The program has been arranged by Director Stock with special care. The first number, Goldmark's "In Springtime," is particularly appropriate. The Saint-Saens concerto for Maud Powell and the orchestra, and the final number, Tchaikovsky's "Pavane," symphony complete a most unusual program.

Aurora people will give Maud Powell a royal welcome to her old home town.

The audience is requested again to come early as the program must start promptly at 8:15. There will be the usual arrangements. Special cars on the interurban lines will be run to accommodate the people.

Mrs. Worcester has already made arrangements for the program for next season. The first concert will be Monday evening, October 22, and Frieda Hempel, perhaps the greatest coloratura soprano now before the public, will be the soloist.

Special features are also being arranged for the mid-winter and spring concerts for next year.

ASSEMBLY TO CLEAR CALENDAR THIS MONTH

(By Associated Press Leased Wire.) Springfield, Ill., April 16.—Illinois legislative leaders have mapped out a strenuous program for the remaining two weeks of April in order to begin activities early in May on the big appropriation measures which must be passed before the session adjourns.

They are desirous of cleaning the calendar of both houses this month of the following legislation:

The $60,000,000 good road bond issue bill and its companion measure to double automobile license fees by 1920, which already have passed the house.

The Buck-Bancroft bill to eliminate the trial clause from state civil service regulations, which the senate has passed.

All private banking legislation. With these bills out of the way, it would be possible to take up for ample discussion the anti-injunction and other measures fostered by union labor, the various Chicago home rule utilities bills, absentee voters' acts and perhaps half a dozen other controversial issues which have not as yet even been touched upon in committee.

The Buck-Bancroft bill, which the senate passed last week, and the Cook county civil service bills are set for special orders in the house Wednesday of this week. Republicans are anxious to get them passed as quickly as possible and claim the necessary number of votes are already pledged.

The anti-injunction bill has been reported out favorably by committee of both houses, as has the bill proposing jury trials in contempt cases. They are expected to come up for second reading this week. Labor leaders are confident of success in the senate, but somewhat dubious of their chances in the house.

The house also has set for Wednesday action on the bills to validate community high school districts, subject of considerable controversy, and which the supreme court held unconstitutional.

Both branches of the assembly, which reconvenes tomorrow evening, are ready to hasten action on any military bills which may come up.

JUDGE RULES FOR PUPILS IN SUIT

Jurist Says Liberal Interpretation of High School Tuition Law Should Hold.

Judge Slusser Overrules Demurrer in Batavia-Genoa District Court in Circuit Court.

The Batavia-Genoa school district No. 112 high school tuition matter suit in the circuit court was before Judge Maxmill Slusser Saturday on a demurrer filed by the school directors of district No. 112.

The demurrer, filed by Atty. Paul Kuhn of Batavia, stated that "no proper demand had been made upon the directors of district No. 112 to pay the tuition of two children of district No. 112 now attending the Batavia high school."

Judge Slusser overruled the demurrer and said, "I don't know that a demand is necessary. The law specifies that the school district not having a high school must pay the tuition of children from that district if they attend a high school of another district."

Judge Slusser also said that he believed that the most liberal interpretation of the law should hold. The law, he said, is a precise and concrete fact having no need of explanation. It should make a mistake if it added any explanation.

Premier Tissa's statement was made in reply to an interpellation by Count Anton Sigraz, speaking of Russia the premier said:

"The situation is very clear. No one thinks of interfering in the internal affairs of the Russian empire. The events which have taken place in Russia have changed in no way our interpretation of the aims of the monarchy and the nation in this war. I think that if now by any fresh statement I were to repeat the completely clear declaration already made by the allied (central) powers, I should not be favoring the cause of peace, which we all have before our eyes, but on the contrary should perhaps be compromising it. Consequently I beg the house to content itself with this statement."

May Pile Answer. The school directors were given time to file an answer to the petition for a writ of mandamus.

The suit is that of Frank R. Brown of the Batavia-Genoa district No. 112 against Directors Julian Schwann, John Rudant and Charles Schimmelpennick. Atty. Dwight Emigh represents Mr. Brown.

Mr. Brown has two children, Florence, 17, and Mark, 14. They passed thru the eighth grade of the school in district No. 112. The father asked the school board to pay their tuition of $60 apiece a year in the Batavia high school. He claims they neither approved nor refused. The children are attending the Batavia high school, which is the high school nearest their home.

Mr. Brown claims that because of the failure of the school board to comply with the law he has been obliged to guarantee the payment of $120 to cover the cost of the tuition of his two children for one year in the Batavia high school.

MY TIRED FEET
ACHED FOR "TIZ"

Let your sore, swollen, aching feet spread out in a "bath" of "Tiz."

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your shoes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.—Advertisement.

AUSTRIANS FORCED TO SIDE WITH GERMANY

(By Associated Press Leased Wire.) Amsterdam, April 15.—Premier Tissa of Hungary is quoted in a Budapest dispatch as having said in the house of magnates:

"As regards the question of the United States, we have had occasion to express our point of view. Since, as I have previously pointed out, the United States, to our regret, declared itself in a state of war with Germany, the logical conclusion necessarily had to be drawn. That is a precise and concrete fact having no need of explanation. It should make a mistake if it added any explanation."

MOTHER'S FRIEND

Few Drops When Corns Hurt, Pain Stops! Corns Lift Out

Don't let corns ache twice! Lift any corn or callus off with fingers—Here's magic! Women! Keep it on dresser!

No humbug! Any corn, whether hard, soft or between the toes, will loosen right up and lift out, without any pain.

This drug is called freezezone and is a compound of ether discovered by a Cincinnati man.

Ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freezezone, which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus.

Put a few drops upon a tender corn or callus, instantly the soreness disappears and shortly the corn or callus will lift off with the fingers.

Freezone doesn't eat out the corns or calluses but shrivels them without any irritation. Just think! No pain at all; no soreness or smarting when applying it or afterwards.

Women! Keep freezezone on your dresser and apply a few drops whenever a corn begins aching. Pain stops, corn goes.

Genuine freezezone is sold in little bottles packed in a round, wooden case.

THIS DAY IN ILLINOIS HISTORY.

April 16, 1832—Governor Reynolds issued a call for militia to serve against Black Hawk and his band.

'SWATTERS, FALL IN!

The most effective time to fight is before the enemy is ready.

Why not open a swatting campaign before the fly is ready?

That would give a strategic advantage which would keep the pest in check.

One can hardly imagine anything more desirable than a flyless community. Of course it is hardly possible to eliminate all flies but experiments have shown that flies can be eliminated to such an extent that they will be hardly noticeable.

Flies breed in animal and vegetable waste.

By eliminating these breeding places or by treating them with substances which will kill the fly larvae, flies can be almost entirely eliminated from any farm or community.

By starting early, any community can practically eliminate the fly nuisance but if the fly is given an opportunity to propagate, extermination is well-nigh impossible.

The trouble with most anti-fly campaigns is that they are not started until the flies begin to give trouble.

Then it is too late for effective work.

"BILL BEEZER."

Judd Lewis in the Houston Post puts a vital problem in clever form:

"Bill Beezer got a can of paint and said in language queer and quaint, 'By Jingo, before I put this down I'd like to paint the hull durned town! I just ain't got no better sense than to spread paint on every fence, if I could do it, and by gum, I guess that would be going some! And I would paint the house white and all the chimneys red! I'd write my name on this here dilly town today before the sun went down, and make this hull place look brand new. If I could that is what I'd do! Just one good brush, and some good paint, makes a place look what it ain't! It covers up the bad spots and improves a place to beat the band!'"

"Bill Beezer said in language quaint, then he got busy with his paint; he painted fences front and back, he painted up the servants' shack, he painted up the wash house, too, gave the woodshed a coating new, daubed paint upon the chicken coop each place a man could climb or stop. Bill climbed and stepped, and spread a coat of paint that got his neighbor's goat. And so his neighbor got a can and painted his shack like a man, and then his next-door neighbor got some paint and got to work, and what Bill Beezer started spread so fast, and spread so far, that at the last the whole durned town which had looked mean was painted and looked fresh and clean."

"And when Bill put his bucket down he had put paint on the whole town. He had done wonders with his pen."

"I hope you're a Bill Beezer man."

KENTUCKY'S "MOONLIGHT" SCHOOLS.

Kane county had a "spell down" the other day at the county court house.

Five of the contestants spelled 900 words orally without a single error.

All of the contestants were eighth grade pupils.

Not long ago "Aunt" Patience Lunsford, aged 72, the oldest pupil in the Clay county, Kentucky, night schools (known in that section as "Moonlight" schools) stood up against "Uncle" Ed. Silvers, aged 69.

The two put up a royal battle, but finally Aunt Patience lost on the word "deceive," spelling it "decieve."

That is a sample of what has been going on in hundreds of school houses in the mountain districts of Kentucky during the past two years.

In Clay county alone more than 500 men and women have trudged to the school houses after their day's work was done and everyone who has lived on a farm knows what that means.

Cumberland county had a school fair. Contestants were divided on ages, one class for those under 30, another for those between 30 and 60 and a third for those over 60. They wrote "specimens," and "diddle" arithmetic and spelled. The contests were held in the county court house yard.

In one "moonlight" school in Cumberland county 26 stood up in a row, among them a man 59 years old, his wife and three grown children, all of whom had learned to read and write in 12 nights. This man, according to the county literacy agent, learned more in nine months than the average child learns in years.

More than 10,000 people between the ages of 20 and 70 are learning the rudiments of education in these 1,200 Kentucky night schools.

Probably it will surprise you as much as it did us to learn from the bureau of education at Washington that literacy is a greater danger in the east than in the south and west.

The low rate of 5 per cent of illiterates among the population over 10 years old in New England and the middle states and 3 per cent in the north central, compares with 15 per cent in the south and 7 per cent in the mountain states. Yet the point on which the bureau dwells is the comparative decrease. Whereas the actual numbers of illiterates in most states have remained about the same, the numbers in the south have decreased by some 25 per cent.

COOKING TAUGHT IN A WAGON.

In Webster county, Kentucky, domestic science can be taught in the schools without the big expense of equipping a school with numbers of stoves, tables, cutlery, and dishes, for a wagon completely furnished as dining room and kitchen serves the purpose.

Any rural school interested has merely to send for the wagon, and to furnish board, lodging and supplies

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

(By RUTH CAMERON)

Piling Little Pitchers.

I suppose there are few English speaking people who do not know that proverb.

And almost as few who give it any but the conventional interpretation.

Little pitchers have big ears—therefore we should be careful what they overhear. That is the familiar interpretation.

Here is another. Little pitchers have big ears—therefore they can absorb a lot of useful information if you will give them the chance.

Why should the child learn that word?

The other day I heard a child ask a grown-up about some glass panels in an old fashioned closet door. She explained their purpose and added that the glass was "opaque," explaining the meaning.

The child repeated the word after her with evident interest.

The mother laughed. "You don't expect him to remember that?"

"I don't know," said the other grown-up. "He remembers all sorts of things. Why not begin to enlarge his vocabulary? I never could see why people don't answer children's questions more intelligently and try to bring the child to their level instead of stooping to his level."

"You'd see fast enough if you were a mother and had to hear a thousand and one questions a day," said the mother.

Of course she was right and at the same time wrong.

To the onlooker the game is always too easy but don't forget that the players are often equally handicapped by lack of proper perspective.

We were talking the matter over afterwards. "Of course I'd get tired of answering the thousand and one questions her children ask," said the grown-up in the case, "but half of them are foolish questions, things they ask just for the sake of talking, the way you grown-ups utter a string of words when you really haven't anything to say. I'd teach them not to ask them or I'd ignore them. But why nthey asked intelligent questions teach them something."

That Does Not Prove It Isn't the Ideal Way.

Now of course she might not follow that course. Theoretically do sometimes backslide when confronted with the obstacle of actuality. The spirit is agreeable but the flesh is weak.

But that does not make the theory less right or prove that it is not the ideal towards which every mother should work if she wants to be an educative influence in the life of her child.

YOUR HEALTH

(By JOHN B. HUBER, A. M., M. D.)

A man's a man, for a' that.—Burns.

The Measure of a Man.

Is there any way of increasing the health besides exercising? And if so, how? People often bend over considerably and so do not measure up to their real health. With improvement of their condition and the assumption of right posture an inch or more may be gained.

By exercise, and by cultivating the ramrod back, half an inch, possibly an inch, may be gained. I do not know of any other way. Some time ago there was a movement afoot for electrifying school children. The idea of the school room were to contain the electric fluid; and it was declared that the height of children and all other dimensions in proportion could thus be considerably increased. To Arrhenius, the famous scientist, were attributed observations based on experiments on animals; and much was made of this by American enthusiasts. But the scientists on investigation, when they found that such procedures, I do not believe any unnatural means of increasing the height will avail. A man's stature is generally estimated by the world in terms of personal dignity rather than in inches. Men like Napoleon seem to be considered big enough, no matter what their physical dimensions.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Progressive Muscular Atrophy.

I am a young man of 25 years. I have never in my life been sick. About eight months ago the muscles in my right hand started to get weak; and now I have had to give up my work. I have no grip in my right hand and my left hand is getting weak. What is this disease?

Answer.—Progressive muscular atrophy. The affection afflicts a chronic course lasting from 4 to 20 years. Heredity is a factor in some cases. Exposure to cold and damp, injuries, lead poisoning, syphilis, infectious fevers are other causes. This is a serious malady and the sufferer should put himself at once in the hands of a good doctor. The remedies are carefully selected. The diet should be rich in food, and alcohol, outdoor life, good food, and exercise of tobacco and alcohol, massage, electricity, gymnastics and drugs given according to the cause and the conditions in each case.

Bald Spots.

There are spots on my scalp which itch intensely; there is scalding and the hair has all come out.

Answer.—Such bald spots are called alopecia areata. In some cases localized patches precede the hair fall for weeks or months. In many cases there is a complete loss of the hair generally in the nervous system; in some cases the cause is parasitic; in other cases both causes obtain. Therefore both constitutional and local remedies have to be used. The hygienic life has got to be led; and such remedies as contain iron, arsenic, phosphorus, strychnine or quinine are indicated, according to the needs of the individual case. Shampoo the whole head with mixture of green soap once a week. Before making any local applications remove the loose hairs surrounding the patches with a pair of tweezers, or have some good friend do this. Besides this, painting the patches, no oftener than once a month, with tincture of capsicum or pure carbolic acid is good measure. The galvanic battery has in some cases been used. The positive pole is placed at the nape of the neck, whilst the negative is applied to the patch by means of the electric roller. Any electric supply store will furnish the small battery needed.

Mail Trick in Alaska.

Now that the motor truck has penetrated the jungles of Africa, and carried German supplies over the rugged mountain passes of Roumania, it is not surprising to learn that the government is employing one in the place of a dog sled to carry the winter mail in Alaska. Last November, shortly after the close of navigation, the first Alaskan mail truck made an experimental journey from Nome to a point 22 miles distant. ## The Department of Agriculture

II. Awakening the Nation

(By Frederic J. Haskin)

Washington, D. C., April 12.—In the United States of America there are more than 100,000,000 people. This is a figure too large for the human mind to grasp, but the human mind can grasp its significance. It means, among other things, that the smallest movement which gets started among the American people takes of importance like a snowball rolling down hill. Habits of thought and speech and action sweep the country from end to end, because we are one people with the finest means of communication in the world. If it is the national fashion to be a little wasteful, it means that the total national waste reaches an absolutely staggering figure. Now, on the other hand, if it were the national fashion to be a little saving—

One of the things that the department of agriculture is working vigorously to bring about is just that establishment of the little habit of economy. Economy in the little things is all that is asked so far; for the little economies will be multiplied by a hundred million, and without being the less happy or the less comfortable, we can save enough to feed England.

Let us look at the bill in food which the nation is paying. We lose every year $200,000,000 worth of eggs alone, that might be saved.

The department is attacking the food problem from every angle. All round the year it is helping the farmer to produce more and better and greater production today; but now the experts and scientists are appealing to every American, in city and country alike, pointing out to him how he can produce food and save food. The farmer is being urged to increase his acreage, the city dweller is urged to use food more wisely, and the suburbanite, the commuter, the early-rising, frolic-loving person who is "city and country" together and his nearest neighbor the town dweller, are called upon to come forward and plant a garden, to shoulder a spade and get in line, and bring forth food in this critical moment. The empty lot and back-yard campaign is nation-wide and going strong. The time is not far off when the man with a piece of ground will be regarded as a luke-warm American.

The food needs of America are likely to be urgent within a few months, not so urgent because we will not be able to produce as much food as we need for home use, but because one of our greatest parts in the war and one of the greatest services we can do for our cause will be to supply our European allies with every possible pound of food. Moreover, particular sections of the United States itself are likely to feel a shortage, because there will be an unprecedented demand for freight cars to carry munitions and war supplies from interior points to the coast.

The motto of every American city and county should be, to produce as nearly as possible enough food for its own use. By so doing, it will not only assure sufficiency at home, but it will place the nation in a position to great famishing regions for shipment abroad, and release, too, the cars that are necessary to carry other things. These two phases of the matter are clearly stated in recent words of prominent men. Lord Northcliffe, the leading British journalist, stated that for the moment the greatest service America could render the cause lay in a lavish supply of munitions, money and food. The munition question is an industrial one, and a board of industrial experts is already working on it. The financial question is being met by the monster loan proposed in congress. The food question can only be solved by the co-operation of every American.

As to the local side of the food question, Secretary of Agriculture Carl Vrooman stated it plainly when he said a farmer's meeting in the south that they must take steps to produce enough food for the use of their section at home if they were to avoid the pinch of short transportation facilities.

In recognition of this national food problem, the department of agriculture has launched its two great campaigns to check waste and promote the economical use of food on the one hand, and to increase the supply by means of the city-lot and back-yard and suburban garden campaign on the other.

The experts of the department, according to Secretary Houston, estimate the annual American food waste at $46,000,000. This enormous waste is caused by bad preparation and bad cooking, and much of it can be avoided. Another point is the custom that has grown up in many American families of serving an overabundance of food. There is among some of us the feeling that to put on the table just enough food, and no more, is really a mean economy. This notion, as the department points out, is entirely mistaken, and shows rather bad taste as well. Waste is never admirable, even in the most prosperous times, and too much food cooked means that some cooked food is thrown away. In the time of the present, such ideas must be banished at once. In Europe today, the people take pride in economy, not in liberality; even the women pride themselves on the simplicity and cheapness of their clothes.

AURORA SLAYER LOSES IN PLEA

Rep. W. J. Tyers, Former Prosecutor, Refuses to Intercede for George Keressl.

IS SERVING LIFE AT JOLIET

Rep. William J. Tyers, former state's attorney of Kane county, will not intercede for George Keressl, young Hungarian who is serving a life term in the Joliet penitentiary for the murder of his sweetheart, Vera Sabo. Keressl will appear before the pardon board in July and ask that his sentence be commuted to 25 years. In a long letter received by Representative Tyers last Thursday Keressl asked that Tyers recommend to the pardon board that his sentence be reduced.

"I mailed a letter to Keressl today notifying him that I could not grant his request," Mr. Tyers said today. "Because of the nature of the crime I do not believe there is anyone who can help Keressl."

Keressl shot the Sabo girl in the back as she trudged thru the snow along the Northwestern railroad tracks on the way to Geneva to marry him. Following is the letter received from Keressl:

Haunted by Girl's Face. "I was born in Hungary March 22, 1893," he says. "My parents were poor and I did not have the advantages of many children as I only attended school two years when my father died. When I was 10 years old I was required to go to work to support myself. At the age of 15 I brought my family and came to the United States. I located in Amherst, Ohio, where I found work in a stone quarry. I stayed in Amherst about three years, working every day. All my spare money I sent to my mother and sister in Hungary. One day I was sent to the United States as I felt I could better support them here. Shortly after their arrival we moved to Aurora where I secured employment in the cotton mills. Now comes the sad part in my life. One single act has wrecked my life. I was only 15 years old and could not fully realize what I was doing—could not realize the seriousness of the crime I committed. I heard it said that almost everyone does something at that tender age for which he or she is sorry in after years. Some do not fall away as others, or are not found out. Still they do this 'something,' and if found out, are excused on account of their youth. They are not condemned for life. Should I, then, be condemned for life for a crime which I could not have committed had I reached the age of discretion and full understanding? Oughtn't I be given a chance to redeem myself as others who have not fallen so deep?"

"On June 5, 1911 I commenced to serve a life sentence in the Joliet state penitentiary for the murder of a girl. The future looked dark before me. I cannot describe my feeling. In my dreams I was haunted by the face of the girl I killed. During the night I would wake up with a start and shudder. I could not go to sleep again. I was on the verge of despair. I began to realize what I had done. Often I thought of ending my misery by taking my life. But a faint hope that I might be able to redeem myself, and the thought that I should try to prove that I am not heartless for my ally's sake, kept me from committing this deed. I realized that I had a great task before me but I persevered and made the best possible record in prison. I was in the penitentiary but a comparatively short time when I was made a trustee. From one place of trust I was promoted to one more trust until I reached the goal—prisoners strive for—the honor of being a trustee. On April 14, 1916, I was transferred from the prison to the honor farm in Lockport, Ill. Even here I was trusted more than usually in the case with prisoners who have only been here a short time. I was assigned to the road, hauling supplies to and from the prison and to Lockport and Joliet. I have been here a year now, which is proof, I believe, that my one desire is to make good."

Now, Mr. Tyers, I make my plea to you. The authorities here have been fit to trust me. They recognized the good in me. Although I made a mistake when a boy in his teens they gave me a chance to show what I was made of. They did not condemn me. They made me a trustee in the fullest extent of the word. Would you blight my whole life for a single act committed at the most tender age of a boy's life? You must surely be convinced now that I am not altogether bad. I admit that I deserve punishment but feel that I served a 25 year sentence that justice would be satisfied. Therefore I ask you to recommend to the board of pardons to commute my sentence to 25 years. If you do not think this sufficient punishment—what recommendation would you be willing to make?"

"Can you realize my sufferings—the agony of mind when I look forward with a life sentence hanging over me? It is bad enough for a man who has lived his life (a man past middle age) to face such a sentence, how much more than for a boy in his early twenties who probably has 30 or 40 more years to live. As my sentence is now, of these possibly 30 or 40 years, I cannot see a single happy ray before me. For this reason, therefore, I am anxious for my sentence commuted at this time so that I may feel easier. My folks are contemplating having my case presented to the board of pardons. If meeting in July, will not do so unless you make a favorable recommendation."

"Please, Mr. Tyers, give this matter careful consideration. I have tried to place before you my true feelings, and hope you realize what a favorable recommendation means to me. Won't you please give me a chance?" Respectfully submitted, 1165 GEORGE KERESSL.

"EXCUSE ME A MINUTE, HERE'S ANOTHER ORDER FOR NEARLY BEER. IT'S SELLING LIKE WILDFIRE."

HOW THE CITY MONEY WENT

From speech last Friday night by Ald. John Penion, chairman of the council committee on finance. "There are a great many things I could say about the present administration. I want to say just a word about the city's money. The report of the auditors showing the shortage in the water department was about 7 o'clock one council meeting night when the audit company sent two copies of the report to Aurora. The council took one copy into the mayor's office and gave the other to Arthur La Rue. As soon as La Rue got his copy he went upstairs to City Attorney Kelley's office. A few minutes later Kelley and La Rue went across the street to the office of Raymond & Newhall. Later when the finance committee met with La Rue our city attorney, Mr. Kelley, tried to come into the office but we could not let him in. He was looking after the interests of La Rue and not the interests of the city."

Harley "Didn't Know." "Mayor Harley says in his speeches that the board of public works paid Dabney Maury, Chicago engineer, $10,000 to draw plans for the reservoir. The city has already paid him $12,670 and he has a contract calling for $100 a month until the reservoir is completed. It may take another year to finish the job. Mr. Maury has a contract signed by Charles Kilbourne, president of the board of public works. Mayor Harley says he did not know anything about the contract. The mayor should know about the contract as under the law all contracts must be signed by the mayor and city clerk."

Dr. Schwachigen Hit. "The finance committee now has a bill presented by Dr. George B. Schwachigen, the city health officer, for $670. He has asked to be paid the salary of the city chemist from the time Hixson quit last October up until now. Dr. Schwachigen was not appointed to the office until March 15, yet he is asking us to pay for time when he was not doing the work. He will be paid for the time starting March 15. I, as one member of the finance committee, will not agree to take money from the treasury to pay Dr. Schwachigen for work he did not do. I believe the city laboratory should be better managed. Hixson, the former chemist, drew $125 a month and spent most of his time in Chicago finishing his studies at Chicago university. When he completed his studies he quit the city. "Just a word about the water department shortage. The finance committee had meeting after meeting going over the report of the audit company. The pay rolls of the department were in such shape that we could not fathom them. The report showed a shortage of $1,232 on the pay roll alone. We were advised by our attorney, Nate Aldrich, and by the Safe-guard Audit company that it would be difficult to trace this shortage. Both the audit company and Mr. Aldrich advised us to settle for $1,000 and that is the reason the settlement for this amount was made."—Adv.

COLLEGE WOMEN MOBILIZE

(By Associated Press Local Wire.) Philadelphia, April 16.—In response to an invitation from the National League for Woman's Service, Bryn Mawr students met today to mobilize for service in war.

"If you know how to cook," the invitation says, "don't stop to learn to become a motor driver. If you can milk a cow, don't undertake to study aviation. The country needs cooks and dairy maids right now, and if that happens to be your job just now, stick to it and do it a little better than you have been doing."

LIFE INSURANCE FOR ENLISTED MEN HOLDS

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE BY THE LOCAL AGENTS.

Men who enlist in the United States army now can secure life insurance policies, local agents said last night. Since the announcement was made some time ago that premiums of policies taken out by persons leaving the country would be increased 10 per cent of the face value, there has been a misunderstanding. The increase only affects those who leave for foreign countries. Soldiers who remain in this country pay the same premium as civilians, but if they are sent out of the country the 10 per cent increase is made, providing the policy is taken out at the time of leaving.

GREAT COHAN PLAY IS COMING TO FOX

Snappy Farce, "Hit-the-Trail Holliday," to Be Presented Here Wednesday Evening.

Herecoming Farce, Unusually Effective Love Interest With Frank Otto, and Leja Merrill.

Cohan & Harris' great farce, "Hit-the-Trail Holliday," which is doing phenomenal business in nearby cities, comes to the Fox theatre Wednesday night.

Thrills, laughs and love interest once more are operated as the sure-fire elements of a successful play in "Hit-the-Trail Holliday." The thrill of George M. Cohan's latest play takes hold almost at the beginning of the play with the development of a situation wherein a rather pleasing American, armed with little more than cool nerve and courage, hurls defiance at an entrenched tyranny in the form of brewery millions, and starts out to turn the little town of Johnsburg upside down. But never is this working out of the plot to command more than a second's serious thought, the endless succession of laughs being almost continuous from start to finish.

Bartender Star Role. Frank Otto in the play is "Hit-the-Trail Holliday," who first is introduced in Johnsburg as an expert Broadway bartender summoned to give prestige to the new hotel. On his arrival a chance altercation with the local bully and liquor magnate draws him temporarily into the camp of the temperance workers, where, to his considerable surprise, he finds himself a spectacular success.

He is such a howling success that, within a fortnight, he has driven the brewery out of business, receives a telegram of congratulation from the Great Chautauqua, created a notional demand for a temperance beverage called "Nearly-Beer," and marries the lovely daughter of the minister. The plot unravels only a George M. Cohan story can, filled with original lines that invite howls of laughter.

Cohan & Harris' own company is headed by Frank Otto and Leja Merrill, who have proven veritable box office draws in this new farce. Supporting them are such well known players as Arthur V. Gibson, Harry

RUSH OF RECRUITS ON THIS MORNING

Four Aurorans Enlist in First Few Minutes of Recruiting—
One Before Breakfast.

Corporal Peltola Expected to Break All Records at Local Army Headquarters Today.

The first real rush of recruits in Aurora came this morning when four men were enlisted under the national colors before 10 o'clock. One colored boy arrived at the recruiting office before breakfast and finding he could enlist rushed off to draw his wages and quit his job without waiting to give his name.

The four new recruits who enlisted this morning are Edson Dudley of St. Charles, who joined the cavalry; W. M. Bumpus of 351 Plum street, who enlisted in the quartermaster's department, and John O. Galor and Harold Viekens of Sugar Grove who enlisted in the infantry.

Of for Army.
Bumpus left for Chicago this morning with Gilbert L. Gates and Urban F. George who enlisted last week and started for the army this morning.

The colored enthusiast promised to return this afternoon and formally roll with the colors. Corp. A. J. Hein says that he is going to break records at recruiting this morning.

He expects to have 20 new men on their way to army by the end of the week. There are exceptionally good chances for the man who enters the service now to work himself up rapidly as there are good chances of advancement as the new recruits come piling in.

Erlendson, Second Lieutenant.
Alan Erlendson, son of A. J. Erlendson, seed merchant in River street, left yesterday to join the officers' school of Culver Military academy in preparation for the examination as second lieutenant in the officers' reserve corps. Should Erlendson so desire it is probable that he may enter the army immediately as there are many vacancies in the second lieutenant class.

Erlendson is a graduate of Culver Military academy. At the present time he plans to enroll himself in the officers' reserve corps after completing the course at the Indiana school.

WHAT BOY SCOUTS PROMISE TO DO

Edward C. Bacon, Field Scout
Commissioner, Plans Campaign for Aurora Lads.

Says Boys Are Taught All Manner of Useful Handicraft in Their Work.

"Why is a Boy Scout and what does he do?"

These two questions according to Edward C. Bacon, national field scout commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America, at present in Aurora to put on a $10,000 campaign for a three-year budget to place scouting on a business basis in Aurora, are asked him a good many times a day. He says they are reasonable questions. He answers them almost as concisely, thus:

"Boy scouting develops a power of initiative and resourcefulness. It helps the boy. He works and learns. Many people do not understand what the Boy Scouts are, their work, or their advantages," Mr. Bacon said yesterday. "For their benefit let me say that scouting means outdoor life and so—health, strength, happiness and practical education. It insures good citizenship. It seeks to help boys on leaving the school to escape the evils of 'blind alley occupations'—that is, such work as gives a boy a mere wage, leaving him stranded without any trade or handicraft to pursue when he is a man, and so sends him as a recruit to the great army of unemployed."

"Scout craft includes instruction and first aid, life saving, tracking, signaling, cycling, nature study, seamanship, handicraft, woodcraft, and all the handicrafts. No expensive equipment is required, all that is needed being the outdoors a group of boys and an efficient leader. By combining wholesome, attractive outdoor activities with the influences of the scout oath and law, the movement cannot help but develop character."

Mr. Bacon explained that a candidate for the organization is not a full fledged scout for many weeks. For instance, he first becomes what is termed in scoutdom as a "tenderfoot," then a "second-class scout," and after efficient and deserving service, a "first class scout." When a "regular scout" the whole sphere of the scout program is made available by the boy's own application in qualifying himself to pass a test for the various merit badges.

"As a scout," Mr. Bacon explains, "the boy willingly adopts a real principle of life as set forth in the foundations of the organization."

Have You Backache, Gout, Rheumatism?

(By M. C. LUCAS, M. D.)

American men and women should guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out. They weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and often the poison reaches the tissues, causing rheumatism and gout.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead, when your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night, when you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, ask your druggist for Anuric (double strength). I have found in practice that Anuric is more potent than lithia and in most cases it will dissolve the uric acid as hot water does sugar.

Most people do neglect themselves. Their tongue has a dark color, skin sallow, breath bad, yet they fail to see that their machinery needs attention. Everybody should take a mild laxative at least once a week. A pleasant way to clear the tongue in the morning is to take a laxative which will cure the inactive liver and biliousness.

A pleasant vegetable pill is made up of May-apple, leaves of aloe, and jalap, made into a tiny pellet and coated with sugar. First put up by Dr. Pierce nearly 50 years ago. Druggists sell these vegetable pellets in vials, simply ask for Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.—Advertisement.

SEPARATE SKIRTS

FOR ALL OCCASIONS
by Hester Winthrop

The Dressy Sport Skirt is a Modern Motion-It is Silk and in Gay Soft Color

Striped Flannels Make Very Smart Summer Skirts for General Wear - The Skirt of Tussah or Khaki Kool is Ideal for Country Club Wear - French Sport Skirts.

NOBODY would have thought of sport skirts having a whole page to themselves, a year or two ago. When they were mentioned at all, it was in a paragraph tacked on at the end of a page about new blouses; or inserted somewhere in a page on general athletic wear—as sport garb used to be called. But how hath the humble separate skirt grown in importance. Whole windows in exclusive shops are devoted to it; pattern magazines print pictures of it in various guises; special departments in the garment sections of the great shops are given over to its exploitation—and here we are, you and I, making a particular study of it today.

For the wardrobe without several good looking sport skirts would be poor indeed—and this at a time when fashion insists upon the one-piece frock as the standard of dress for all formal occasions! A sport skirt, at its boniest, can never be considered a formal garment. When worn made of silk or of satin it is only a sport skirt—not to be worn at a wedding or a dinner party or even at the theatre unless one goes very quietly, sitting upstairs in the balcony with an escort not in evening attire.

Many Sport Skirts of Silken Stuff. But though the sport skirt is not recognized by fashion as a formal affair, it is permitted to show itself in fabrics that are distinctly of a formal nature. Nothing seems too good for a sport skirt—even velvet. Some of this winter's separate skirts were of velvet and summer sport skirts are of corduroy, a form of velvet. Satins and silks are very much the thing for the making of summer sport skirts and some of the models are built of mesaline or meteor satin quite elegant enough for wedding gowns.

There is a vast difference between a spic and span new silk sport skirt, worn with simple blouse in the house, and the second of summer sport skirts, a silk frock which every woman used to "wear around the house" when fashion was not so arbitrary about indoor costumes as she is now. What does become of the silk frocks of last year, anyway—one never seems to see them about? Perhaps, thrifty souls make them over into petticoats. At any rate no sport skirt of this summer could possibly be cut from a last season's skirt model; and if it could, it would lack that pristine freshness that is half the charm of one of these simple but chic garments. A typical satia sport skirt of the moment is pictured. It is shirred in three rows at the waistline and has a deep hem at the ankle. The pockets which add immeasurably to its smartness, are set on with cords and are drawn up with corded shirring. A pleating of the selvage of the satin being set along the top of each pocket. This skirt is made of gold-colored satin and is shirred and hemmed by hand with gold-colored sewing silk. A blouse of cream-colored tub silk accompanies the skirt.

Sport Skirts Show Barrel Silhouette. Many of the tailored skirts of worsted fabric and of mohair show the barrel silhouette which is commend-

Skirt Matched by Parasol and Reticule

Pleats Fit This Point Skirt Over the Hip and Braid Motifs Give the Military Note

One of these Models is Box Pleated, the Other has Huge Checks Made of Contrasting Color ed by Paris. The barrel skirt sounds much worse than it looks. It is not at all extreme (unless cut so purposefully) or ugly on the figure. Almost any skirt is more graceful if it curves in a bit toward the feet instead of swinging out in a straight line and you will remember that fashion artists gave skirt lines this clever little inward curve below the knee long before barrel skirts were thought of. It is this subtle inward curve that the best tailors are now giving skirts that measure two and a half to three yards at the foot and the effect is really very graceful when well done. The Polart skirt pictured has this slight slope and is called in Paris a barrel skirt, yet its lines could surely not offend any taste, even the most conservative. The Polart skirt is fitted over the hips by wide and narrow pleats and a cord ornament falls over each wide pleat. These ornaments depend from tabs which overlap a narrow, braid-trimmed belt. The barrel pockets at the sides are also trimmed with cord ornaments. Many of the French skirts have this suggestion of the military in braid and cord trimmings and in rows of metal buttons. Old and individual belts are also seen on the Paris skirts.

Jenny's Sport Skirt Graceful. Jenny is putting aprons on sport skirts and not military trimmings, and the Jenny skirts are altogether charming. One of her daintiest sport skirts is of beige mohair and worsted mixture with box pleats down each side from belt to hem and apron draperies across back and front and falling just short of the knee. These aprons and the edge of the skirt below the box pleated sides are stitched in many rows with self-colored sewing silk and the skirt buttons down the center front as far as the hem of the apron, with little brown buttons. This skirt is being worn by a New York woman who has selected as its accompaniments: White-capped boots of brown leather, a brown straw hat with white lace veil, and a blouse of beige chiffon with little embroideries of coral beads.

The Colors in the Striped Flannel Skirt are Repeated in Embroidery on the Cashmere Sport Suit

The striped flannel sport skirt pictured is also from Jenny—or at least its original was a Jenny model. This skirt is light, comfortable and not too warm for the warmest summer day. Some women contend that these lightweight flannel skirts are cooler than starched linen or duck just as most men insist that white flannel trousers are cooler than trousers of white duck. At any rate the striped flannel sport skirt is much the thing just now and it is extra smart if accompanied by a blouse of silk cashmere. In the costume pictured the blouse is embroidered in pale green, dark green and rose to match the stripes in the skirt. The hat is green straw with a white straw facing, the buttoned boots are white, worn with striped sport stockings.

Sport Skirts With Ruffled Pockets.

One may be as coquettish and feminine as she pleases in a modern sport skirt. Just because a sport skirt bears that name it does not have to be sternly tailored or semi-masculine in type. Not at all, it may have captivating frills and flounces if it pleases, and also a sash. But the flounces must hang from the pockets and not encircle the skirt itself. So insists Cherish whose latest sport skirt, of striped lilac and white mesaline, is the daintiest thing imaginable. There is a gathered yoke to the hip and from this (attached by a cord) hangs the gathered skirt finished only by a deep hem. But the pockets! They are big, corded and shirred bags set on over each hip, the top corner even with the cording that separates yoke and lower portion of the skirt. And from the lower edge of each pocket where it is sewed to the skirt depends a twelve-inch flounce that gives decided safety—and bouffancy—to the silhouette.

Manufactured Checks of Fabric.

Three very good looking sport skirts are pictured. Two models shown together are of khaki-kool, which is an ideal skirt material. The striped skirt is pleated in shallow box pleats, each pleat covering a stripe in the material. The skirt on the seated figure shows a novel trimming idea—big checks of contrasting color applied to the material above a hem also of the contrasting fabric. It is not hard to manage this smart trimming at home. All the checks, or blocks, must be cut from the same pattern—a true square. Then they must be carefully basted in place on the skirt, after the edges of each square have been turned in and pressed firmly. The blocks must be applied to the material with blind stitching, or may be stitched on the machine with perfectly matched sewing silk, keeping the seam as near the edge as possible.

To Every Sport Skirt Its Reticule.

Do not overlook the reticules pictured with all these silk sport skirts. Hamlet with the Dane left out indeed is this summer's sport skirt minus its matching handbag! The more unique the shape of the reticule, too, the better—and it should be a roomy affair with capacity for all the little traps one carries about in summer time—fancy work included. The dotted sport skirt is of white tussah with discs in blue, red, green and yellow. Hat add parasol are of the same material, the blouse fine white net.

A SLEEPING PLACE IN THE TABLE NOW.

THE folding bed was once a nine days wonder, but now it is so far out of fashion that even the apartment house dweller will have none of it. Its place has been taken, in recent years by the davenport which by night resolves itself into a capacious double bed. But the davenport's nose is broken now—so to speak—for a new darling has arrived in the shape of an apartment house space saver: the table-bed which during the day is a good looking library table of near-Queen Anne type with a shelf underneath and capacious drawers with wooden knobs. Somewhere within these drawers a full sized bed hides itself away—the thing is marvellous, really! The top of the table lifts itself up and the drawers, knobs and all, go with it and out comes the bed: full length, and comfortable as an over-night guest could wish.

Miss Baby's COIFFURE

NOBODY but a mother knows the time and trouble it takes to keep the wee girl's hair brushed generally in dainty, spic and span condition. When the wee girl has pale corn-colored or golden locks the trouble and time may be multiplied by two. But never yet was there a mother who begrudged time or trouble or considered the labor anything but a labor of love. It is usually the small person who does the begrudging, especially when the lovely curls that everybody raves about have to be slept upon in knobby bunches made by curlers. It always seems a pity to curdle a child's hair, yet many and many a little head turns red on the pillow because of lumpy curls made of kid or even of harsher substance.

It is much more sensible to allow the child's hair to hang straight. If it is kept trimmed by a barber who knows his business it will look smart and correct, even if not as pretty as softer curls would be. Have you ever noticed how many children in fashionable and exclusive circles have straight, trimmed hair; and how the darlings of humble homes are be-curled and befrizzed—particularly on dress-up occasions? Of course, if the wee girl is one of the fairy-kissed mortals with naturally curly locks, so much the better for herself and her fond mamma. There is nothing lovelier than the golden, curly head of a little child and such a rare possession should be given exquisite care.

Never braid naturally curly childish hair, for by so doing you may destroy its tendency to curl. On warm summer days the curls may be piled high on the wee tot's head in quaint and bewitching fashion; the girl of seven or eight may have her curls tied back with a ribbon; but braids should be permitted only to the straight-haired little sister. After adolescence the character of the hair will be definitely settled and it will be curly hair or straight hair until old age, whether it is braided, coiled, twisted or wrapped around the head. But many a curly-haired baby grows up to become a straight locks; and more than one youngster with hopelessly straight tresses is the possessor of wavy hair in adult life. Just why this is, no one seems to know but there are instances of the kind in the experience of almost everyone.

Only a very foolish and frivolous-minded mother would touch her little daughter's hair with any chemical; and it is almost as bad to use hot curling irons on the delicate hair tendrils of childhood. The use of peroxide, to keep the hair of babyhood light-colored is certainly not advisable though a little peroxide in the rinsing water for woman's hair will do no harm. Frequent shampoos with pure soap and water, brisk massage of the scalp, frequent sunnings and constant brushings will do all that is necessary for the little girl's tresses. If the hair grows darker gradually, one must make the best of it—not all women have golden hair. Very, very few in fact are so blessed, and if the growing girl is to have brown locks, the golden hue of babyhood is bound to change by the sixth or seventh year. A pitiable sight indeed is the little maid of nine or ten years with artificially bleached tresses; and later the condition will be even worse, when broken off hairs and a streaky color make the coiffure of twelve or thirteen anything but lovely.

Children's heads must be shampooed regularly—and frequently, especially children living in the country where little folks run about without hats and the head is exposed to dust and dirt. Incredible as it may seem to the careful mother, there are children, beautifully dressed and with hair carefully curled and arranged, whose scalps show a crust of dirt because "shampoos are so much trouble." The average child loathes having its hair washed; the process is never an agreeable one for mother, nurse or small victim and this is usually because the water is too hot and the rubbing too rough, the main idea of the grown-up being to get the task over with as speedily as possible. Use warm, not hot water and pure castile soap which may be shaved first and dissolved in boiling water.

Brush-And-Finger Curls Are First Made In Stiff Corkscrews And Then Pulled Out To Fluffiness.

Dilute this mixture with cool water and rub well into the scalp until a fine lather has been obtained, all over the little head. Then rinse in several waters, all lukewarm and not too hot or too cold for comfort—not of one's own hand but the tender head at one's mercy. Dry with warm towels and then with a fan. Select a bright day for the shampoo and have the child play about in the sunshine, even if the windows must be kept closed because the weather is cold. The sun helps to bring out the gold glint in freshly washed hair and will also aid in the drying process.

If the child's hair shows a tendency toward weak growth and sparseness, massage every night with the fingertips to stimulate the scalp, and never omit the morning and evening brushing which does more than anything else to make the hair silky of texture and strong and sturdy of growth. A little white vaseline rubbed into the scalp will help the growth of weak hair but no tonics should be used without the advice of a competent specialist.

Stiff ringlets are no longer the fashion; the little girl's hair must be soft and fluffy, a cloud about her face. The ringlets may be made first with brisk and foreranger and should then be combed out lightly. A frizzy effect is always painful, however, and artificial curls made over kids are very apt to give this effect. The best sort of curlers—if curlers must be used—are made of soft strips of linen cloth. The lock of hair, slightly dampened is rolled and then twisted over the strip of cloth which may be tied in a double knot or pinned fast with a safety pin. Never on any account—seems almost unnecessary to add this—put ordinary sharp-pointed pins in such curlers. They may be worn only during the daytime but one never knows when a child may tumble down or roll about in play, and a tragic accident might easily result from a sharp pinpoint.

Hair that is not very thick should not be tied up with ribbon but should be simply parted and allowed to hang over the ears and just short of the nape of the neck. Thicker hair may be divided and tied up at one side, a crisp bow covering the narrow ribbon which holds the tied-up lock.

A VEIL IS AS SMART AS IT IS ECCENTRIC.

SOME of the new patterns in veils give amazing expressions to the face beneath, but the more weird and eccentric a veil pattern, the smarter it is, in the estimation of some women. Only a pretty face can stand a conspicuous veil design, the plain woman or the woman of dull, washed-out coloring should confine herself to fine meshed veillings with conservative and unobtrusive patterns in border or all-over effect. The latest veil of the woman who adores striking fashions has a vine design that radiates in six lines from a dot which rests just over the dimple in her chin, giving her face something the effect of a war map with the latest retreat in the Somme country indicated by wavy lines. The upside down veils with most of the pattern at the top where it shows against the hair have not diminished in favor; one sees them everywhere.

AN OPERATION AVERTED

Philadelphia, Pa.—"One year ago I was very sick and I suffered with pains in my side and back until I nearly went crazy. I went to different doctors and they all said I had a female trouble and would not get any relief until I would be operated on. I had suffered for four years before this time, but I kept getting worse. The more medicine I took. Every month since I was a young girl I had suffered with cramps in my sides at periods and never regular. I saw your advertisement in the newspaper and the picture of a woman who had been saved from an operation and this picture was impressed on my mind. The doctor had given me only two more days to make up my mind so I sent my husband to the drug store at once for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and believe me, I soon noticed a change and when I had finished the third bottle I was cured and never felt better. I grant you the privilege to publish my letter and am only too glad to let other women know of my cure." Mrs. THOS. WOODWARD, 818 1/2 Harrisonville Street, Phila., Pa.—Advertisement.

Society

Music, "the greatest good that mortals know," is so plentiful in Aurora these days that the city must have first mortgage bonds on a fairly generous slice of the Good Place. It has been good music, too, and will continue to be good music all day today and this evening.

While the weather man sends forth intimations of rain and cold—the Styl-vandell management seemed not to worry but immediately canvassed the street to the curb in readiness for the automobiles, and carries which this evening will convey the people to the Symphony concert.

Maud Powell in Town.

Maud Powell, the great violinist, reached town last evening and is staying with Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Holden in Root street. She is looking tremendously well, and is well and happy and is looking forward with interest to the concert this evening at which she is to play.

There will be no attempt at social functions for Maud Powell, for her stay is a short one. She goes on into Wisconsin Tuesday morning for other engagements, and is therefore trying to rest up a bit, although there is of course much visiting with the friends whom she has known so long. Visiting with Maud Powell means something, too, for there are few women in the world more nearly evenly developed and balanced than the former Aurora girl.

The Children's Concert.

By the time this copy is upon the machines for setting, the Chicago Symphony orchestra will be in town. For it was scheduled to leave Chicago at 11 o'clock. The children who had been chosen to sing at both children's concerts this afternoon, were on the quiver and everything was O. K. It had been planned to take a flashlight picture of the 700 children they stood in place upon the improvised seats in the orchestra shell at Styl-vandell.

Prof. Riemschneider's Playings.

Had Professor Riemschneider of Cleveland, never before been appreciated, he might have felt satisfied with his reception in Aurora. In addition to the concert of Thursday and Friday evening, he played Sunday afternoon at the First Methodist church. The recital had been announced at 2:30 o'clock, but long before that time the church was filled, and later the doors were locked. Still later an overflow seating was arranged in the lecture room and a large number had been turned away. The professor volunteered to play again at 5 o'clock, which was certainly most kind.

The music of the day yesterday was in charge of Mrs. Essie Hanks Miller, including that at the morning service at which the people had the pleasure of listening to Bishop Thomas Nicholson, and again in the evening when Dr. Frank Sheets was the speaker.

Mrs. Wernicke's Concert.

Despite the many musical events of the present, Mrs. Alice Wernicke's popular concert Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock had its attendants.

Mrs. Wernicke has a little group of skilled pupils who play very good music very well, and with Miss Ruth Breytpraak and these pupils, has preceded the winter's symphony concerts with study popular concerts, playing for those present, the music to be played at the following symphony concert. Yesterday the music was the Tachikawa symphony to be given this evening.

To Give Dinners.

There are but comparatively few dinners before the concert this evening, partly for the reason that a large number among the usual dinner givers, are close friends of Mr. and Mrs. William Fletcher Fowler.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Waters are among those who will entertain, they will have eight for dinner, going on later to the concert.

Frank T. Baird, the well known vocal teacher, will have a number of his close friends among the orchestra management and membership at dinner at the home of his sister, Mrs. A. G. Spring, while Col. and Mrs. George Fabry will have five of the leading orchestra members at dinner.

Jewelry Seminary Dinner.

A dinner was given at Jennings seminary yesterday between the morning service at the First Methodist church and the afternoon concert, at which the guests were Bishop Thomas Nicholson, Dr. and Mrs. Frank D. Sheets, the Rev. and Mrs. Charles J. Brady and Prof. Albert Riemschneider, the organist.

Here's Hoping for Good Weather.

The weather man, thanks be to Allah, is correct in his weather prognostications only every little while. His threat to send rain tomorrow is a mean trick, for "tomorrow" has only one meaning in Aurora—election day. However, women will have to learn to take the bitter with the sweet and if a ride to the polls means a ride in the rain—well, rain it is. Perhaps it was only in the days when they hitched old Dobbin to the chaise that they got out the grey bonnet with the blue ribbon on it. Perhaps in these days of Elizabethan runabouts and high power touring cars, they wear headgear which rain cannot spoil. Women must get out—that's all there is to that—men must vote.

er get the idea that they have no interest in the election. Besides, if women in Aurora only knew it—men have a consuming interest in them, and they are going to vote. The time is past for the women to be awayed by father, husband or brother. It is only necessary to get out the thinking cap, study conditions, study the men up for election—up and go and vote with a clear conscience.

Everybody Had a Ride. Everybody who had any sort of a vehicle on wheels, especially of the gasoline variety, and everybody who had an invitation to go along, had a ride Sunday. The roads are said to be wonderfully good for this time of year, largely because there has been so little rain. Many went to the wood for the word had gone out that the wild flowers are out—or some of them.

Miss Jordan to Lecture.

Miss Nettie Jordan, superintendent of the Aurora hospital, will give a talk upon Red Cross matters at the T. W. C. A. Tuesday evening.

Form Ladies' Aid Society.

The Women of the United Presbyterian church and their friends of the vicinity met at the parsonage Friday afternoon and organized an aid society. The Rev. J. H. McNamee called the meeting to order stating the object of the same, and led in prayer. Mrs. Tanner was appointed chairman of the meeting. After a short talk by Mrs. Tanner, Mrs. Fred Booth was elected temporary secretary, and the following officers were elected:

President Mrs. Paul; vice president, Mrs. Ryall; secretary, Mrs. Fred Booth; treasurer, Mrs. McIlwraith; chairman work committee, Mrs. Richard Gamble.

Following the business session a social hour was enjoyed, with music by Mrs. Girard and Mrs. Annie Tanner. Mrs. McNamee surprised her guests by serving delicious refreshments.

The Country Club.

Everything is moving along out at the Country club and the greens roller is rolling along daily. In the attempt to get the turf into the best possible shape, after wrestling for a time with the task, which was placed upon the club house as a matter of economy with ensuring leakage and trouble—shingles are now being put in place as fast as possible. Everybody who has met Spencer Meisler, likes him very much indeed, and they do say he has the caddy room in shipshape condition, and any number of good clubs for those who want them. Mr. Meisler is still so new to many Aurora people that there is a mad desire to call him "Mr. Spencer," but very much indeed, he has met oodles of people in his golf career. A number of women as well as men are out at the week-end on the temporary greens, and it is said that there is nothing doing on permanent greens as yet—except the which are said to be grazing on Chicago golf club links, or meadow larks which are thicker than spatter on southern state greens, or so Aurora people say who played down there this year.

Chicago, April 16.—(Scarcity of oil) The advances with which the market has been favored since the war began previous records. The 30-day futures, which was especially in demand, to $2.16 a bushel as against $1.92 a bushel a year ago. The market at first advanced a downward movement on account of better weather, but later called over to strengthen on account of the war. The market is now trading prices, which ranged from $2.16 to $2.18 a bushel, with $1.98 at $1.99 a bushel.

In subsequent dealings war was continued its record breaking upward movement reached $2.17, an ascent of 25¢ from the $1.92 of the 10th of April. The market was then hit by a sudden rise with July up to $2.06, a slight decline followed by purchases to $2.05. The market appeared to be largely for seaboard and Gulf oil, which was sold with May. Higher prices came when the announcement of a huge falling off in United States fluidity supply took place. The extraordinary upturn in oil kept the corn market on the advance. Corn stood at 2 1/2¢ a bushel. Oats were strong with other cereals, however, were weak as the market was selling by scattered lots.

Attention Voters!
Remember, citizens, when you vote tomorrow that W. H. Reaney, candidate for city clerk, was the one man in Batavia that made it possible for the city to have a new fire truck. He told the East Side Improvement association that he would make a personal effort to interest individuals in donating towards a fire truck fund. He did that and after the sum of $1,500 popular subscription was reached the city of Batavia then donated no charge to protect this city from fires. This was all thru the efforts of W. H. Reaney, who is a candidate for city clerk.—M. M. Kinne, President of the East Batavia Improvement Association.—Adv.

Vote for Walter Carlson for city clerk next Tuesday.—Adv.

To all voters of the city of Batavia—Women and men.
Owing to the fact that I am unable to personally speak to each individual voter in Batavia, concerning my candidacy for the office of city attorney, to be voted upon tomorrow, I am taking this means of calling to your attention, thru the press, some of the things which I feel you should know and consider before casting your ballot.

For sixteen years, during the early part of my life, I lived on a farm four miles from Batavia, and while living there, attended the grade school in Batavia and the Batavia high school, and graduated from that school in June, 1906.

The following year I took a post-graduate course in college, and the three years following that studied law at Northwestern university and received a degree of Bachelor of Laws, from that university in June, 1910. That same month I passed the state bar examination and received my license to practice law, and about three months later returned to Batavia.

MORE VOTE PLACES FOR ST. CHARLES

St. Charles, Ill., April 16.—The St. Charles school board will provide for additional polling places for use at the school election next Saturday.

It was announced today that the school board, believing that such procedure will be legal and that the big vote expected Saturday will necessitate more polls, have promised aid.

When the call for the election was issued the board designated but one polling place and fixed the hours of election from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. Board members said that they had understood that there would not be a contest at the election this year and they did not care to sit in a polling place for several hours and have only a few votes cast. In years past there were no contests, the votes cast totaled about 20 or 40.

There are said to be 2,400 in the St. Charles school district and with a lively contest developing almost every voter will want to vote, it is believed. With only two hours for voting and one polling place it would be necessary to wait 1,200 voters on the line 20 every minute and one every three seconds.

E. T. Cassidy, acting president of the school board and candidate for re-election as a member today said, "the board will do what it can to give every voter a chance to vote at the school election. We will get legal advice, to guide us."

ILL FATE TRAILS WEINAND FAMILY

John Weinand Loses Son, While Daughter, Himself and Another Daughter Are Ill.

Ill fate has been trailing the family of John Weinand, well known resident of High street. His son, Edward Weinand, 26 years old, one of the best liked young men in the Seventh ward, was buried this morning. He died last Friday following an operation.

Two weeks ago Miss Josephine Weinand, a sister of the young man who was buried today, became dangerously ill with scarlet fever. She and her father have been residing at the home of another daughter, Mrs. Mary Richards, 564 High street. When the girl got scarlet fever the house was quarantined and the father went to live with another daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Peller, 244 Rural street. A few days later he became ill with erysipelas. Then the other daughter, Mrs. Richards, came down with pneumonia and for several days was at the point of death.

With the father and two daughters ill the son was forced to go to the hospital for an operation. He had "let off" the operation for days because of the serious illness of his sister. He died within a few hours after he left the operating table.

The father has recovered and was able to attend the funeral this morning but the two sisters are still confined to their beds. Mrs. Richards is nursing the two daughters. The nurses are kept at her bedside day and night as there is a suspicion that she may have typhoid fever in addition to pneumonia.

HOLDEN ASKS "Q"
WORKERS SUPPORT U. S.

Chicago, April 16.—Hale Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, has written a letter to each of the 40,000 employees of the system asking them to give their whole attention to supporting the government thru their present labor and by such individual efforts as they may deem necessary outside their work.

CO-EDS MOBILIZING

Miss Lydia Raymond of Aurora, daughter of Attorney and Mrs. John M. Raymond of Downer place, and Miss Margaret Hewitt, both co-eds at the University of Chicago, are leading a plan to mobilize of the University of Chicago co-eds for patriotic service at a meeting today.

The meeting was called by Dean Marion Talbot, who presented a number of proposals whereby women students can aid in conserving the health and resources of the country. Only women were admitted to the meeting.

WET-DRY ELECTIONS

Wet-dry elections in West Chicago and Maple Park tomorrow are exciting great attention because of the intense campaigns. West Chicago is now dry, Maple Park is wet.

BUTTER AT .54

Foodstuffs continued today in what seems to be an unending advance in price. The most noticeable was in butter. That article went up 4 cents a pound. It is now selling for 52 and 54 cents.

Potatoes advanced once more. They are now selling for 13.49 and 14.19 a bushel and every sign is that the market will advance again tomorrow. The 13.60 potatoes are from Ohio, the higher priced spuds are the white western stock.

All other commodities held firm to the high prices which they established.

BACK TAXES COME IN

Over $50,000 in delinquent tax money was paid at the office of County Treasurer E. F. Goodell last week, which was the period allowed for payment without a penalty being added.

The first penalty began today. The penalty is 10 cents for each lot and 35 cents for each tract. Beginning May 1, a penalty of 1 per cent will be added and June 1, 2 per cent, and July 1, 3 per cent.

Candidates Agree

On one proposition all of the mayoralty candidates are agreed it was learned.

The three favor the city tax for playgrounds, and parks. A very few cents from each taxpayer will give the city the playgrounds, a bathing beach and a comfort station.

Vote for the parks and the playgrounds tomorrow.

Society Notes

Four hundred people witnessed the production of "Five Feathers," given by the North Shore Dramatic club of Chicago at Our Lady of Good Counsel church last evening. The play was given under the auspices of the Holy Name society. Earl Wagner presided at the piano.

St. Catherine's Court.

St. Catherine's court W. C. O. F. No. 111, will meet tomorrow evening in St. Mary's school hall. All applicants are requested to be present as it is the last meeting Mrs. Katherine Conry, the court's president, will be able to attend. A large class will be initiated next Friday evening in K. C. hall.

Home From the Playgrounds.

Aurora has practically its full quota of residents once more. Any number of water skiers are arriving the last few days. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alshuler came home from California yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Mason, who have had a wonderful time in Florida, came home Saturday night, coming via New Orleans, where they enjoyed their stay very much.

Mr. and Mrs. William Henderson of Gardalia avenue, who spent five months in southern California, reached home this morning, stopping at the Grand Canyon on the way. They have had a splendid winter, and have seen many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Pierce Green, who have been in the country, returned to their country home at Bald Mount this morning.

About These Letters.
A number of Aurora young men from the Bylandt management, telling them that they need not attend the Bylandt dance again, for so these boys report, it was stated this morning by the Bylandt manager, that these boys were responsible for deliberately breaking the fence which is in place on dancing evenings and which is removed while roller skating. The management states that similar trouble was experienced previously. On the other hand the boys contend that they were not to blame and that the boy who did the "pushing" which resulted in the fence breaking, did not receive a letter. The boys claim they were unjustly used. This seems to be a matter to be settled between Mr. Tolson and the boys in the case—neither Mr. Webster nor Doorman MacDonald are the courts of last resort, also both state that they are trying to keep perfect order and yet be fair.

The Woman's Club.

The Woman's club politics seem to be moving along. It is said that Mrs. May Thompson of LaSalle street is a candidate for the corresponding secretary for which Mrs. J. K. Newhall is up for re-election. This however, may not be so—many rumors are heard nowadays.

City Missionary Meeting.

The City Missionary union will meet Tuesday, April 17, at 7:30 o'clock at Trinity parish house. A good attendance is desired from all the churches. "The women can vote first," said the secretary who telephoned this notice.

Card Party at North Aurora.

The Royal Neighbors North Aurora card party will be Thursday and not Wednesday, April 19.

Postpone St. Elizabeth's Party.

The St. Elizabeth Embroidery club has postponed the meeting, planned for tomorrow, until two weeks from tomorrow.

Surveys Domestic Science.

The Domestic Science circle will meet Thursday with Mrs. William F. Graham. "The home flower garden" will be the topic in charge of Mrs. W. H. Smith. One remembers that Mrs. Graham has a charming front lawn, fenced off which is unusual in country homes. The home flower garden in many country homes, consists of a flower bed, screened off with a ring-around-a-rosy of chicken wire, around the bed.

VOTING FOR ALDERMAN

Movie Notes

Lucas as Jim Bludso.
 Wilfred Lucas, the star of "Jim Bludso," picture play made from the famous poem by John Hay, which was seen at the Fox theatre, has previously appeared in the leading roles of four noteworthy Triangle features—"Acquainted," "Hill to Pay Austin," "Rummy" and "The Microscope Mystery."

In "Jim Bludso" he is said to have one of the most powerful roles ever allotted to a screen star. Not only does he, as engineer of the Prairie Belle, "hold her nose agin the bank till the last galoot's ashore," but he also has many other stirring adventures. A remarkable feature of the play is the complete destruction by fire of the Prairie Belle, the Triangle Fine Arts studio having purchased a river boat and burned it to the water's edge in the production. Still another remarkable scene is the inundation of a Mississippi river town by flood after the bursting of a levee. Water is seen pouring down the streets in streams and coming up to the second story windows of the houses. Lucas is supported by a noteworthy cast, including Olga Grey, Sam de Grasse, Wilfred Westover and George Stone, Triangle-Fine Arts noted child actor.

"The Single Code."
 Seldon has been presented on the picture stage a more telling contrast than that witnessed in the Mutual-Horsey production of "The Single Code," illustrating the point that a double standard of morality is criminal. One of the most powerful actors of the American stage, in his character of Hugh Carrington, husband of a society girl, is forgiven by his wife after she discovers his former liaison with an adventuress. Later, Carrington learns of an evil plot in his wife's devious days and confronts her with the evidence. He goes to his wife as the stern judge and the man cannot find forgiveness in his heart for the woman who has freely absolved him, despite the patent fact that her sinning was thru ignorance, while he lived the tainted life of a "man of the town" for years before his marriage and sinned with full knowledge.

He is a most effective paraphrasing of the deadly parallel to point a moral.

"Shackles of Truth."
 "Shackles of Truth" is the title of the next vehicle chosen for William Russell, the Mutual-American star. This story was written by Julius Grinnell Burthmann, who is also the author of the last two Russell productions, "High-play" and "The Frame-up."

In this picture William Russell appears as a young lawyer, who is willing to sacrifice his own career to save the honor of his father and shield his mother.

Francella Billington plays opposite Mr. Russell. Others in the cast include Alfred Vachon, Adda Gleason, George Ahern, Lucille Ward and Fredrick Vroom.

Harry Carey, player of western roles, has purchased a country home. A few days ago, while his company under the direction of Fred A. Kelley, was working in the neighborhood of Newhall, not far from Universal City the actor closed the deal for an attractive piece of land with a house, stables, and corral already built upon it. He has moved in, taking with him his collection of dogs, and his horses, and has purchased a car to make the trip to and from the picture city in comfort.

"Steps to Somewhere" in another unit of Essanay's child series, "Do Children Count" in which little Mary McAllister appears.

While waiting to be called for his scenes in "The Flower of Doom," the Red Feather photoplay made by Rex Ingram, Millard K. Wilson, who plays the role of a reporter, engaged in a game of checkers with a Chinese actor who was taking a part in the production. Wilson declares that he will never do so any more for there was a group of Celestials standing behind his opponent, continually offering advice in Chinese, which, of course, the actor could not understand. He was badly beaten, and he says that he is willing to play against one Chinaman, but not against a crowd.

Don't Experiment with Catarrh; It Often Leads to Dread Consumption

You Will Never Be Cured by Local Treatment With Sprays and Douches.

Catarrh is a condition of the blood and can not be cured by local applications of sprays and douches; this has been proven by the thousands who have vainly resorted to this method of treatment.

Catarrh should not be neglected or experimented with. The wrong treatment is valuable time lost, during which the disease is getting a firmer hold upon its victim and making it more difficult for even the proper treatment to accomplish results.

Though Catarrh makes its first appearance in the nostrils, throat and air passages, the disease becomes more and more aggravated and finally reaches down into the lungs, and everyone recognizes the alarming condition that results when the lungs are affected. Thus Catarrh may be the forerunner of that most dreaded and hopeless of all diseases, consumption.

No local treatment affords permanent relief. Experience has taught that S. S. S. is the one remedy which attacks the disease at its source, the blood, and produces satisfactory results in even the worst cases. Catarrh sufferers are urged to give S. S. S. a thorough trial. It is sold by all druggists. You are invited to write to the medical department for expert advice as to how to treat your own case. Address: Swift Specific Co., 31 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

Keep the Telephone Cord Dry

ONE of the most important precautions in the interest of good telephone service is to see that the telephone cord is kept perfectly dry.

If a wet umbrella comes in contact with the cord, or water is spilled on it, or it is allowed to fall into an ink-well, the moisture causes a short circuit which puts your telephone out of use.

Safeguard your telephone service by protecting the telephone cord. Keep it dry.
